Calls Anthracite Business Most Odious Monopoly

Says Governor Moore in His Inaugural Address, Urging the Creation of Tri-state Commission to Destroy Monopoly—Wants Volstead Act Modified.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 19.—Cooperation by New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania in the creation of a tri-state commission "to destroy the anthracite coal monopoly" and provide a never failing supply of coal at a price "not in excess of ten dollars a ton," was suggested by Governor A. Harry Moore today in his inaugural address to the 150th session of the New Jersey Legislature. He also urged modification of the Volstead Act. He succeeds George S. Silzer, also a Democrat.

An Odious Monopoly.

"The anthracite coal business is controlled by perhaps the most odious monopoly that ever arose among a free people," Governor Moore said. "This trust maintains its power by the possession of two privileges: It has acquired control or ownership of ninety-eight per cent of all the anthracite coal in Pennsylvania, which means the entire country. The other privilege is control of all the railroads leading out of the anthracite field.

"They have delayed deliveries and charged excessive freight rates and thereby made it impossible for existing coal companies to compete and have compelled them to sell out to the trust, until now the trust controls, directly or indirectly, nearly all of the operating mines.

"This is an intolerable situation. Primarily it is the business of the national government, but the White House holds that the Constitution renders the president helpless."

Not a State Problem.

Declaring that it was not a state problem, Moore nevertheless suggested a state plan to end the monopoly.

"With the cooperation of New York and Pennsylvania," he said ", tri-state commission could be set up with power to condemn—acting through the state courts of Pennsylvania—a sufficient amount of lands containing coal to set up competition against the trust. A coal railroad could then be constructed from the mines to tidewater in New Jersey.

"This plan would absolutely destroy the anthracite coal monopoly."

Wants Volstead Act Modified.

The new governor characterized prohibition as the "crowning act in a series of recent developments to destroy states' rights." He urged his hearers to cooperate in ending the "encroachment" of the federal government upon personal and private liberties, and suggested that the legislature memorialize congress to modify the Volstead law.

Repeal of State Dry Statute.

Governor Moore also urged repeal of the state prohibition enforcement statute. He suggested a conference of governors to inquire into the question of states' rights as against the will of the federal government, and made pleas for reduction of taxation and rejection of the proposed constitutional amendments to have the governor and United States senators elected in presidential election years.

COUNTY WIDE SEARCH FOR MASKED BANDITS.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—A county wide search was on today for five masked bandits who early yesterday blew the vault in the Van Heusen Charles store, 470 Broadway this city, and escaped with diamonds, jewelry and other precious items valued at $100,000.

After a 12 hour investigation not a single clue has been unearthed, the local police said today. Photographs taken of the vault in the hope of securing finger marks were worthless, according to the Bertillon expert of the Albany police department.

Peter Mayer, watchman at the store, who was gagged and shackled to an iron post in the cellar, was unable to give the police a description of any of the bandits.

Late Monday afternoon Mayor Block notified City Clerk A. A. Styles to call a special meeting of the common council to meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the city hall to consider the matter of transferring the Winne bus franchise to the trolley road. It is expected that the council will grant permission for the transfer.

Hon. Mayor and Common Council,
Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

The Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company is perfectly willing to comply with conditions set out at the conference in New York with the Public Service Commission and has ordered the necessary busses, but as the amount of money involved is so large we cannot allow shipment to be made from Chicago until the transfer from Mr. Winne is sanctioned.

Spies of Four Nations Arrested

Moscow, Jan. 19.—Spies of four nations which border on Russia have been arrested by the state police as a result of a series of raids covering territory "from the Black Sea to the Baltic," an announcement here said today.

It was stated that the military intelligence services of three other nations were involved.

The political police of Leningrad arrested forty-eight, charging that these persons were employed by the Esthonian general staff to obtain plans of the Leningrad military district. It is alleged that those arrested admitted they had cooperated with the Latvian and Lithuanian intelligence service, securing information for the use of the British army.

Soviet officials charge that the prisoners are part of an organization headed by Colonel Frank, whom they accuse of being a British agent. It is alleged that the Grand Duke Nicholas is also a leader in the organization.

The Ukranian police arrested seventeen, including Soskis, who is alleged to be a Roumanian spy.

In Turchinova the police raided the salon of a society woman and made a number of arrests, including two Czecho-Slovakians, who are charged with economic espionage.

Taxpayers' Books Should Be Closed

Washington, Jan. 19.—Time of filing federal income tax returns probably will be extended until the new revenue act is passed by Congress, it was announced by the bureau of internal revenue today.

Officials declared, however, that the bill is very certain of passage before March 15, when the tax returns are due.

A statement issued by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair said:

"The filing of returns this year is delayed pending enactment of the new revenue act, which contains changes in rates and other features.

"However, there is nothing to prevent a taxpayer from closing his books and computing his net income. Such computations will not be affected by any provision of the new act.

"Therefore, it is advised that all figures and data be assembled pending receipt of blanks by taxpayers. When released the blanks will be sent to taxpayers."

Withdraw Bad Check Charges

Edward Schumaker who was brought to Kingston Monday from New York where he was arrested on a warrant charging with getting money on fraudulent checks in the town of Woodstock, paid about $600 to settle claims against him and the complainants withdrew the charge. Schumaker was traced to Newark, Philadelphia and New York by Deputy Sheriff Edward Gaynor who went after him Monday, but Schumaker had engaged a lawyer and claimed lack of jurisdiction in his being arrested. Magistrate Rosenblatt after being shown the proof of the legality of the warrant and Deputy Gaynor's papers turned Schumaker over to him.

Will Investigate Housing Problems

Republican Leaders Favor Thorough Investigation But Are Opposed to Governor's Plan for Municipal Aid.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 1.—The Republicans in the Legislature will make a thorough investigation of the recommendation made by Governor Smith in his annual message suggesting local financial aid for housing.

Senator Knight, Republican leader of the senate, said today that in all probability both houses would adopt a measure creating a commission to study the entire situation with instructions to report to the legislature in 1927.

The enactment of a constitutional amendment will doubtless be necessary to accomplish what Governor Smith desires," said Senator Knight.

Bills were introduced today by Senator Nicoll, Republican of New York, which would carry out the recommendations made by the housing commission in a report which it recently submitted to the law makers.

One of the Nicoll measures would extend the emergency rent law, which expires next month, to June 1, 1927.

Another would exempt from the emergency rent statutes, apartments in New York city which rent for $20 per month per room, or more, and apartments in Buffalo and Albany, averaging $15 per room.

In his annual message the governor recommended an amendment to the state's constitution so that municipalities could extend financial aid to build low cost houses. He also suggested the creation of a state housing bank, similar to the Federal land bank, to loan money for the construction of homes which would rent for not more than $10 per month per room.

While the Republican leaders favor a thorough investigation of the housing problems they are said to be opposed to the governor's plan for municipal aid.

Investigation Into Train Crash

Four Official Investigations Under Way to Fix Responsibility For Crash on Williamsburg Bridge—One Dead and a Hundred Injured.

New York, Jan. 19.—With legislative action begun at Albany to remove the wooden car peril, four official investigations were under way today to fix responsibility for the rear end crash between two Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit trains on the Williamsburg Bridge during yesterday's rush hour, which resulted in the death of five year old Ruth Soefer and the injury of 100 other passengers. Twenty-four victims are in hospitals. The Soefer girl died late yesterday in a hospital, hours after the accident.

John Simmer, injured motorman of the wooden car train which rammed the steel car express on the fog enshrouded tracks ahead, was under arrest charged with homicide.

Preliminary investigation of the collision distributes the blame, giving the causes as the fog, the speed of the second train which made it difficult to stop when the train ahead loomed up, and faulty brakes. Simmer, the motorman, told authorities the brakes failed to work.

The death of Ruth Soefer was kept from her father and mother, also passengers, who both were seriously injured in the wreck.

George Blumberg of Brooklyn, introduced a resolution in the state assembly at Albany calling on the transit commission to order the replacement of all cars not of steel construction. State Senator Thomas F. Burchill, of New York, today will introduce a bill along these lines. Burchill was in the crash but escaped injury.

Board Approves Mitchell Verdict

Doubt as to How Secretary of War Davis Will Act—President Should Get Case Within Another Week.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The drastic verdict imposed upon Colonel William Mitchell by the court martial that tried him for his critical attacks on the administration of the army air service passed its first reviewing authority today.

The board of review, composed of law officers of the war department approved the sentence of five years' suspension and forfeiture of all pay and passed it along to the judge advocate general of the army for transmission to the secretary of war.

The approval of the board of review was expected, it being regarded as little more than a formality.

The approval of the judge advocate general also is anticipated as more or less routine.

There is some doubt, however, as to whether Secretary of War Davis will place his O. K. on the verdict. It has been reported that Davis would forward the papers to President Coolidge with a recommendation that the sentence be reduced by half, two years' suspension instead of five, and forfeiture of half pay. Davis declined to answer questions about the Mitchell case today and war department officials refused to say anything.

The slow progress of the Mitchell papers through the cumbersome machinery of the war department should bring the case to the president's desk within another week.

The impression is growing among Mitchell's friends that he will resign from the army unless President Coolidge should take the unexpected action of removing the sentence altogether.

Dishonest Census, Charges Downing

Says Census Was Taken For Political Purposes—Fight Over Reapportionment of Legislative Representation.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Political warfare over the 1925 state census and the reapportionment of legislative representation, was on in full swing today at the Capitol. Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp of Syracuse had charge of the census.

Senator Downing, Democratic leader of the upper house, in a speech from the floor last night characterized the census taken last June as "dishonest."

"It was taken for political purposes rather than for the information of the public," said Senator Downing.

Senator Knight Republican leader, and Senator Fearon, Republican of Syracuse, defended the census.

"You are not fair when you accuse a woman and an elected official of this state of taking a dishonest census," Senator Fearon told Senator Downing.

"The census was really taken by Lafayette B. Gleason, secretary of the Republican state committee," Downing retorted.

"Senator Knight said the census was as correct as it was "humanly possible to make it."

Whether Governor Smith and the Republican leaders of the Legislature will be able to agree on reapportionment of the senate and assembly representation based on the 1925 census was a matter of much speculation today at the Capitol.

Federal Agents Here on Monday

Six federal prohibition agents were in Kingston on Monday and visited a number of places in town. It is said they visited a place on Derrenbacher street, two on Foxhall avenue, one on North Front street and another on upper Broadway. As the federal agents work independently, the police department has no record of the places they visited or the result of the visits.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The state board of estimate and control today submitted to the Legislature a summary of the budget for the fiscal year, 1926-27, showing the total appropriations allowed for the cost of government, not including highway appropriations to be $138,464,727.17.

The board estimated the state's total resources at $201,362,512.40

The increase in appropriations recommended by the board over last year total $12,280,204.85. Of this amount, the education departments increase was $10,720,419.40.

The board of estimate and control is composed of Governor Smith; Senator Hewitt, Republican, chairman of the senate finance committee; Assemblyman Hutchinson, chairman of the assembly ways and means committee and State Comptroller Vincent B. Murphy.

Congress Gets Army Air Bill

New Army Air Bill Submitted By Secretary of War Davis Is Expected To Allay Unrest Among Flying Officers.

Washington, Jan. 19.—A new army air bill, providing changes in the composition and administration of the air service designed to partially meet the criticisms voiced by Colonel William Mitchell and his friends, was submitted to Congress today by Secretary of War Davis.

The bill in general follows closely the recommendations of the Morrow aircraft board, and while falling far short of what the Mitchell school has demanded, nevertheless is calculated to allay some of the unrest among flying officers.

The bill provides:

1. Designation of the air service as "the air corps."

2. Creation of a second assistant secretary of war who will handle air matters at a salary of $7,500 a year.

3. Creation of three assistants to the chief of air service, each with the rank of brigadier-general.

4. Assignment of flying officers to positions of command with temporary rank, pay and privileges.

5. Assurances of extra flying pay on a permanent basis.

6. Establishment of $10,000 life insurance policies for officers.

7. Authorization of a medal to be known as the "order of merit" for heroic or meritorious flying duty.

8. Wider use of enlisted men as pilots.

9. Authorization for purchase of planes without competitive bidding.

The Morrow report also recommended a five year building program for the army air service. Concerning this, Davis said the proposition was now being studied and the department was not yet ready to submit its recommendations.

Other recommendations in the Morrow report, he thought, could be met by administrative changes, requiring no legislation.

Mrs. Valentino Granted Divorce

Paris, Jan. 19.—Mrs. Rudolph Valentino was today granted a divorce from her husband, the "sheik" of the films.

The decree handed down by the French courts had been anticipated since it was announced several days ago that recommendations for the granting of the divorce had been made.

The Valentino divorce action follows a "marital vacation" which finally resulted in Natacha Rambova Valentino going to Paris and filing a divorce action.

Valentino also went to Paris, stating that being a gentleman he could only aid his wife in securing her desired freedom.

The "Sheik" sailed for home today on the S. S. Leviathan and said he was going to make a new "sheik" picture. He has declared that he is through with marriage forever.

The divorce was granted to Mrs. Valentino on grounds of desertion, which is admissible for divorce in the state of Indiana, where the couple were married.

COOLIDGE NOT IN FAVOR OF ABOLISHING TAXES

Washington, Jan. 19. — While President Coolidge believes that ultimately the federal government should retire from the field of collecting inheritance and estate taxes, he is not favorable to such retirement immediately callers at the White House were informed today.

This announcement of Mr. Coolidge's attitude caused some surprise in view of the action taken Saturday by the senate finance committee in voting to abolish the present inheritance and gift taxes in the current tax bill. Secretary Mellon has strongly recommended the abolition of these taxes.

FOUR INJURED WHEN BUS HITS TROLLEY

Truck Makers to Fight Excise Tax

Oppose Penalty on One Type of Transportation—Will Carry Action to Floor of House and Senate

New York, Jan. 19.—Aroused by the action of the Senate finance committee in fastening an excise tax on the motor truck whereas the House bill had removed this levy, shippers, users truck makers and dealers are prepared to exert every energy in fighting this measure which they regard as a penalty on one branch of transportation. Members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce are calling a special meeting to formulate a program.

In this battle they have assurance that the issue will be carried to the floor of the House and Senate. Many representatives and senators are on record favoring the complete removal of excise taxes on motor cars as well as on motor trucks, and it is possible that much further reductions will be granted on the cars as well as on the trucks now that the Senate finance committee has precipitated the issue.

Motor trucks pay much higher taxes than motor cars in the various states. State authorities hold that if commercial vehicles should pay still more for highway use that is a revenue which the state should secure and this source of taxation should not be seized for the purposes of the general federal treasury.

This tax will fall on the truck-operating farmer and as this class of citizen lives most remotely from the railroads it is particularly hurt.

Among the groups on record against the Federal motor vehicle war excise taxes are: National Grange, American Farm Bureau Federation, American Automobile Association, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, National Automobile Dealers Association, Motor Truck Association of America, Rubber Association of America, Motor and Accessory Manufacturers Association.

Toledo's Clubber Kills Another

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 19.—Toledo's mysterious clubber resumed work early today, killing Mrs. Mary Handley, 49.

Mrs. Handley is the ninth victim of the clubber and third woman to die from his attacks.

Mrs. Handley's body was found this morning by her neighbor, Mrs. Mattie Spratl, when she opened her back door to send her daughter to school.

Police believe that the woman was clubbed on the street in front of her home and the body then dragged between the two houses. Mrs. Handley had been struck over the head several times with killing force. Her skull was crushed.

A crude gag, made from her torn clothing, filled her mouth and the clubber then covered Mrs. Handley's head with her cloak.

Mrs. Handley, a widow, lived with her aged mother and five brothers. Her mother, who is ill, had not been informed of her daughter's death.

Stunned by the resumption of the killer's activities after an interval of several weeks, police, county authorities and civic organizations immediately began a new attempt to run down the clubber who has spread terror among the women of the city.

Texas Vs. N. Y. For Export Title

Washington, Jan. 19.—Texas and New York are fighting it out for national supremacy in export business for 1925, the department of commerce announced today.

With returns tabulated for the six months ending September 30, New York had a lead with exports of $405,477,000 and Texas $346,409,000.

Figures for the period from October 1 to December 31, however, may reverse the positions of the states. In 1924, when Texas captured the national export title, the Lone Star State trailed New York until the last three months when heavy cotton shipments pushed New York to second.

New York in the third quarter of the year had exports valued at $297,296,000, an increase over the corresponding period of 1924 of $21,387,000.

Machinery and vehicles accounted for the greatest part of the New York exports.

Defense Society Protests Naming Of Col. Haskell

As Head of State's National Guard Because of His Alleged Sympathy for Russian Soviet Government—Investigation Is Asked.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Appointment by Governor Smith of Colonel William N. Haskell as head of the state's national guard, today brought strong protest from the American Defense Society, Inc., of New York city.

In a letter to Lieutenant Governor Lowman and Senator Knight, Republican leader of the upper house, the Defense Society asked that the senate finance committee investigate Colonel Haskell's "alleged sympathy for the Russian Soviet government."

Colonel Haskell for several years was head of the American Relief Commission in Russia.

The letters asking for the investigation were signed by Richard A. Charles, executive secretary of the Defense Society. Eleon H. Hooker, who some years ago was prominently mentioned as a Republican candidate for governor, is chairman of the society.

Governor Is Silent.

"I notified the finance committee and no doubt the society will be given an opportunity to tell what it knows, if anything, about Colonel Haskell," said Lieutenant Governor Lowman.

When Governor Smith was told of the letters from the Defense Society, he said:

"I have nothing to say."

The Letter in Part.

The letter received by Lowman in part follows:

"Allegations have been made as to Colonel Haskell's unfitness for such a position. It has been alleged that his sympathies are for Soviet Russia, that he is an admirer of that system of government, that he has not only acted as an apologist but that he has by his written word been an advocate of theirs.

"If these tenets of Colonel Haskell's are so alleged, it seems preposterous that he should be considered for the position wherein he should have command of our troops in the event of an uprising against the state. Not that there is any indication of such an uprising in the immediate or near future.

"You must, however, know that there is communistic, bolshevistic and other activities at work against our institutions of government and if the allegations made were true there would be danger in having a man whose sympathies were with the enemy in command of our forces.

"If, when and as Colonel Haskell's name is sent before the senate of the state of New York for appointment to command the guard of New York, I would ask your good officers to prompt a thorough and complete investigation into Colonel Haskell's activities and associations and his point of view as regards the Russian regime and his conduct and associations while head of the Russian relief."

David W. Mapphett, taxicab driver, and John Nettie, chauffer, two victims, described the girl bandit as being stylishly dressed, about 23, with jet black bobbed hair.

SMITH IS SILENT ON MOORE'S SUGGESTION

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Governor Smith today refused to comment on the suggestion made by Governor Moore of New Jersey, in his inaugural address, that the states of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania cooperate to form a commission to break the hard coal monopoly and insure coal for $10 a ton.

"I have no comment to make on Governor Moore's suggestion," was all Governor Smith would say.

Urged to Apply For Trout Now

Albany, Jan. 19.—The fish hatcheries of the Conservation Commission which cultivate brook trout are already almost filled to capacity with eggs of that species in preparation for a distribution season which is confidently expected to be one of the largest in the history of the commission.

Reports from hatchery foremen indicate that the eggs are in good condition and will produce a yield of fry and fingerling fish equal to, or possibly surpassing, the notable productions of other years. The loss of brook trout eggs through disease and other causes the past year has been very light and the fish planted in the waters of New York state have been strong and active. The results of the stocking of lakes and streams by the commission have been excellent as attested by communications which have been received from time to time by those in charge of the propagation and distribution of the fish.

Trout are distributed in various stages of development from the fry, but recently emerged from the egg, to the fingerling which has reached a length of six inches. Many fish culturists of experience when asked for fingerling trout, recommend stocking with No. 2 fingerlings, or those which have reached a development of from two to 2½ inches in length. They say that young fish of that size have not become tame through constant feeding at the hands of the hatchery men, are able to take care of themselves and become inured to the hardships of wild life more readily than their somewhat pampered relatives of larger growth. The consensus of fish cultural opinion seems to favor planting at the No. 2 period.

With application blanks which are given to citizens, there is sent a printed letter of instructions in which it is suggested that all applications for trout should be made before February 1st. This is necessary in order to insure the granting of the request in the distribution season of that year. Some applicants withhold their requests for fish until late in the season in the hope that fish of larger development may be granted; but because of the ever increasing number of applications whose filling exhausts the supply of trout at the hatcheries, compliance is delayed for another season because the available stock has been distributed. Applications should be in the hands of the commission before February 1, but the applicant may specify the size of trout he would prefer, and if it is at all possible the commission will endeavor to please him in that respect.

CARILLON OF BELLS MAY BECOME POPULAR IN U. S.

Instrument Used in Low Countries of Europe for Centuries to Promote Love of Music.

New York.—The carillon with clavier as an instrument in civic musical education has been pealing from singing towers in continental low countries for hundreds of years, but it has only lately become better known outside the boundaries of its origin.

Belgium and Holland accepted the bells as a means of cultivating and teaching a love for folk-songs and the great melodies of their fatherland. The carillon has shared its companionship in all the stirring events in the history of these countries, usually at the public charge. In not a few of the towers the carillon has been played for one hundred years or more on the same day and at the same hour.

While the United States has but fifteen sets of the bells in operation, declares William Gorham Rice, who has devoted a great part of his life to the chronicling of carillons, it nevertheless can boast of the largest in the world. He says no carillon built since the earliest Hemony in 1645 compares in size with the one installed in the Park Avenue Baptist church here by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in memory of his mother.

Rice describes the carillon as a characteristic democratic municipal music in a book published by Dodd, Mead & Co. August Heckscher, New York philanthropist, has offered to present one of the instruments to the city as a World war memorial, if the city will erect a tower in the middle of Central park in which to house it.

The carillon had its origin in a mechanical arrangement of sets of small bells in connection with the clocks which in the Fifteenth century came to be an essential part of the municipal towers of the low countries. It was not long before the mechanism was arranged to play a little tune.

The first modern carillon on the American continent was installed at the Metropolitan church, Toronto. Rice says, and the first in the United States was in the Church of Our Lady of Good Hope, at Gloucester, Mass. Others are at Andover and Colnasset, Mass.; Birmingham, Ala.; Cranbrook and Detroit, Mich.; Morristown, Plainfield and Princeton, N. J.; St. Paul, Minn.; Notre Dame, Ind., and Philadelphia. There are 154 of the instruments in existence.

9,495 Aliens Deported by Authorities in 1925

Washington.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, reports that the immigration service during the fiscal year 1925 arrested and deported a total of 9,495 aliens, the largest number in the history of the service. He makes the following comment on the situation:

"With the tide of immigration suddenly and materially stemmed by the adoption of restrictive immigration measures, leaving millions of aliens who were unable to gain admission through lawful channels, it is quite natural that their eyes should turn to other channels which afforded a means of gaining entry.

"Stimulated by conditions existing in their own countries and encouraged by unscrupulous persons, who sought to reap financial reward from their undertakings, they were easily influenced to adopt the "back door," which to them presented a ready, albeit an expensive, means of effecting entry to the land of their ambitions.

"Of a total of 9,495 deportations under warrant for the fiscal year, the largest number in the history of the immigration service, 1,160, were upon the ground of entry without inspection. Deportations to Canada numbered 1,921 and to Mexico, 1,826. The remainder, minus a small percentage of South Americans, Asiatics, and Africans, were deported to European countries."

Women Take Kindly to Managing Fox Hounds

Tiverton.—Eve as master of fox hunting packs has proved a tremendous success in England and one reason is the fact that by her tact and charm she has been able repeatedly to placate surly farmers when men have failed.

One of the best known woman masters is Miss Kathleen Styles of the West Kent foxhounds, which is one of the favorite packs of Prince Henry.

At present, there are at least eleven woman masters of foxhounds, eighteen woman honorary secretaries of clubs, and about twenty women masters of harriers and beagles.

Fox hunting is on in full tilt throughout the country in the fall. Princess Mary and the duchess of York have participated in several chases in this vicinity. Another keen follower of the hounds is Lady Jean Douglas Hamilton, who frequently hunts all day and then attends a theater party or ball in London in the evening.

M. P. Bobs Hair

Glasgow.—Women voters are hearing the latest authoritative gossip of parliament while having their hair bobbed. James Stewart, Labor M. P., helps out in his barber shop on week-ends.

Slams the Movies

New York.—Continual attendance at the movies weakens the mind, in the opinion of Dr. Sanger Brown, second chairman of the state commission on mental defectives.

American Lace Is Crowded to Fore

Material Especially Popular for Dainty Negligee and Tea Gowns.

The hour of triumph for American-made lace has arrived, declares a fashion writer in the New York Times. After long years of endeavor its creators are placing it with confidence before the appraising eyes of the world. Appreciation of its value and its popular demand have been growing steadily, until now imitation lace is relatively more important than real. The "live" market is for lace designed and made by American artists and artisans. American lace manufacturers have lately arranged an exhibition in which the history, the importance and practical possibilities of the fabrics are shown. A direct appeal to women of fashion was accomplished by a recognized connoisseur of lace and a gifted young Bohemian artist, who planned and directed the fashion pageant in which were shown many beautiful models of gowns and other garments done in American-made lace. A large number of gowns from the most prominent couturiers, which were originally done in lace or artistically translated into lace, were exhibited.

The most inviting opportunity for the use of lace is the negligee or tea gown. Usually lace has been thought of for summer gowns, but fashion now decrees wool and fur for hot weather costumes and chiffon, illusion, lace and other sheer materials for winter.

Some among the latest inspirations from both French and American designers are made altogether of lace. The material was once known as imitation or novelty lace, but is now recognized as a reproduction. These tea gowns have few rivals for beauty, even among those made of the most costly brocades. The present modes are happily designed for the new laces, of both heavy and the most delicate meshes. Yards are used in long flowing sleeves, capes, deep collars, trains and floating scarves.

Laces Most in Demand.

The laces most in demand for these graceful d'interieur are chantilly, Mar got, d'Alencon, Bourbon, Bohemian, Spanish, Macrame, valenciennes, the many variants of metal lace. Even wool lace is introduced in sports clothes, in sweaters, scarves and in children's dresses. It may be woven of very fine yarn into jackets, scarves and veils fine as fleecy clouds. The dyes with which these wool laces are colored create the most decorative effects. Made-in-America laces that are reproductions of rare old patterns are now called American chantilly, alencon, valenciennes, filet, and so on. The best of these are scarcely to be distinguished from the originals. Is some of the wide laces such as are most suitable for negligees, afternoon and evening gowns, creative artists have combined or intermingled patterns of different types. In a flouncing of chantilly a Spanish motif is introduced with intriguing effect. Into a silk lace of Point d'Alencon design a note of Margot is woven successfully.

Hand run laces in white, ivory and ecru are especially lovely this season. They make most charming informal gowns, particularly in combination with delicate shades of crepe or any soft, sheer stuff. A distinct achievement is the tinting of the made-in-America laces. They are so lovely that only a background or length of plain material for contrast is required in the composition of an up-to-the-minute costume. In metal lace American lace makers have accomplished some important and brilliant results. The advantage of metal lace is gilt, bright or dull threads on a mesh of warm ecru or cream-colored silk, or of silver having a delicate pattern on frosty white, for a dinner gown or a dance frock, is keenly appreciated by fashionable women.

Some of the possibilities of developing lace for gowns are illustrated by models from many prominent designers. A symphony in brown is done in dyed Bohemian-type lace over a lighter shade of brown satin for a jeune fille dance frock. In another evening gown an ecru "Spanish" lace is combined with jade-green taffeta. Blue bourbon lace is introduced with blue crepe in a smart afternoon gown, and another model of the same sort is made of American black chantilly and printed crepe in black and white and jade green. In a number of the all-over laces and flouncings the design is elaborated by the addition of beads and metal dots, making glistening high lights on the silky, flowered mesh. Tiny bits of embroidery, wee flowers and fancy motifs are introduced in the laces of this type. Still another attractive novelty is the shadow-lace shown in subtly colored effects and in the most lovely amber tints. A formal dinner gown is built with a clever combination of two kinds of lace, brown chantilly and ecru Spanish, unusual and charming. American "Duchess" lace, all cotton, is made with much skill and is very effective over white taffeta. The narrow laces are much in demand as a dainty finish for collars and sleeves, and for frilly fichus.

Informal Dress for Interior.

The informal dress for the interior, boudoir coat, breakfast coat or lounging robe, is shown in almost countless styles, in a great variety of goods. Quilted gowns, which came in with the autumn fashions, are successful for wear at home and for traveling. One of these is indispensable on the ship or train in cold weather. Some of the more expensive ones are made of Chinese embroidered silk, or are ornamented in some manner with needlework. Usually the gown is lined with a contrasting color, in striking combinations. All of the handsome dress fabrics, brocaded velvets, satins and chiffons are used for negligees, even the metal brocades, which make the most elaborate models. These materials are in themselves so ornate that no trimming other than a border may be added. For this fur, ostrich and marabout are fashionable.

The very last word in stylish neck wear is a set of collar and cuffs of a metallized brocade, satin or crepe, the pattern being in silver or gilt on a background of rose or blue, yellow mauve or green. Many lovely ones are black with an embroidered design in metals. The collar is invariably cut in the round flat shape, the cuffs to match, with sometimes a point on the outer edge. These ornamental accessories presuppose a simple one-piece frock of crepe, satin or lightweight wool, which is untrimmed but for the one decorative touch in accord with this novelty are other collar and cuff sets of Chinese embroidery, of mousseline in different shades worked in petit point or the highly colored European folkcraft. A row of narrow metallic soutache forms the finish for most of this fancy neckwear.

Large, Floppy Flowers.

A large floppy flower appears to furnish the distinctive touch on many articles of fashionable dress. The newest flower garnitures are enormous roses or almost any other posies in beautifully tinted, metalized gauze. One of these forms a gay garniture for an evening gown, for the collar of a wrap of fur, velours or metal brocade, for a negligee and for any one of several uses in the boudoir. Some of the more chic among the younger women tuck a large flower of this sort on the corner of a pillow, coverlet or on the cushion on the dressing table.

Handbags are shown in novelties that grow more and more attractive. Evening bags are small and dainty and distinctly ornamental, studded with jewels. Some are made of silk heavily embroidered in color, others with a painted motif appliqued like a tiny medallion, framed in gilt and set with colored stones.

High Collars

At the moment high collars loom in fashion importance and contribute greatly to the formal appearance that distinguishes the latest modes.

Predict Defeat of Anthracite Bills

Legislature Is Said to Favor Operators and Will Fight Pinchot Proposal—Oppose Resolution Asking Intervention of President.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 19.—Defeat for all of the bills and resolutions, dealing directly or indirectly with the anthracite strike controversy, which have been introduced in the special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, including one asking for intervention on the part of President Coolidge, was freely predicted today by those close to the situation.

Observers state that the legislature is in sympathy with the operators and will fight the legislation suggested by Governor Pinchot—state control of the anthracite industry, as well as any other proposed laws they regard as aimed at the mine owners. At the same time, legislators who have taken the miners side in the issue will oppose all bills they see as directed at the unions and particularly any legislation that would incorporate arbitration.

A public hearing of the mine and the mining committee of both houses on all of the measures introduced into the session is scheduled for January 27. International president of the United Mine Workers, John L. Lewis and other miners organizations leaders, as well as representatives of the operators are to appear, according to unverified reports.

During the brief session of the assembly last night two resolutions bearing directly upon the anthracite situation were introduced. The first, asked for the appointment of a committee of nine to hear both sides of the controversy, but made no suggestions for a basis of settlement.

The second resolution asked for intervention of President Coolidge in an effort to effect a settlement and provides for arbitration of all of the questions at issue which the miners and operators have failed to agree upon.

Representatives of the assembly from the anthracite producing sections openly expressed themselves as being against the resolution which provides that:

"The president appoint a commission of five to convene within fifteen days at Wilkes Barre or Scranton and request the representatives of the United Mine Workers and the representatives of the operators to appear before the board and submit all matters in dispute for consideration of the commission; that the findings or award of the commission be final and binding upon both sides; that the commission suggest the present wage rate be paid the miners until the commission shall conclude its findings and make its award, that the miners return to work at once and that the commission request a contract of five years' duration."

FEDERAL ACTION URGED AVERS PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Washington, Jan. 19.—President Coolidge reiterated to callers at the White House today his belief that no good purpose would be served by either Congress or the executive attempting to intervene at this time in the anthracite coal strike.

The Pennsylvania legislature is now considering the situation, it was pointed out and the president believes it unwise for any federal action to be taken until the state authorities have exhausted every means of restoring peace in the anthracite industry.

If conditions were to develop, the president told callers, it might adopt the recommendations the White House sent up months ago asking the president power to intervene in coal strikes.

WHEN WE OWED FRANCE.

Who was Beaumarchais? Probably no American school boy has ever heard mention of his name, and yet Marshall in his Life of Washington says he "became frenzied in the American cause" and "in long and ardent letters opened upon King Louis and his ministers a rattling fire of arguments * * * that it was the bounden duty of France to adopt the Colonial cause." Encyclopedic notice deals chiefly with Beaumarchais as an eccentric poet who wrote works of merit such as "The Marriage of Figaro" and "The Barber of Seville," but buried in the records of the Revolutionary diplomatic correspondence of the United States there is much reference to his untiring activities in aid of Benjamin Franklin's efforts to get funds in France and the shipment of arms and supplies. He is even said to have loaned the Colonies a considerable sum of money out of the riches he amassed and to have provided the sinews that made possible the American career of Lafayette. Writing in the New York Times, Ray Henderson now recalls: "Beaumarchais, in need, died in Paris after failing to collect a single penny from the United States. Many years later, after a period of haggling and denial, we compromised with his heirs who, tired of our manner of paying an honest debt, accepted a settlement below the actual money loaned to us."

Naturally not much has been made of this rather sorry bit of early American history, but now that hard-pressed France is deeply in debt to us we may as well look back upon a time when we were not only materially but otherwise deeply in debt to France, yet benefited by partial cancellation in the final settlement.

HOUSING FOR THE ARMY.

The officers and men of the United States army and their families will be glad to hear that the Wadsworth bill to sell superfluous posts and land belonging to the War Department and apply the proceeds in part to better housing for the troops has passed the Senate and is sure of being sent to the President for signature. For large numbers, including even junior officers, have long been living in "buildings that no self respecting farm hand would accept"—shacks hastily erected in war time which are now "dilapidated, rotting, leaking, shaking," and therefore requiring continuing "fatigue duty" devoted to tinkering.

In his December report, Secretary Davis told how almost half of the country's defenders lived and reported "a very high and discouraging percentage" in the "rate of desertion" in consequence. The Senate bill 1129 may be described as timely but tardy. It provides that certain military posts not needed and surplus real estate belonging to the War Department shall be sold to the highest bidders, and that the proceeds shall be applied to permanent construction, where needed, in the corps areas.

One of the notable movements in our country, is setting aside of large tracts of timber to demonstrate the practical value of forestation. A gift has been made recently to Yale College that is to promote public education in forestry, by training young men in an outdoor school for this purpose. The same movement providing instruction in forestry operations is being promoted in a number of Western States. The purpose is to convince private forest owners of the economic advantages in management of timber lands. Forwarding the knowledge and practice of economic forestry throughout the country is one of the best outgrowths of the national conservation policy. States must cooperate by eliminating the tax burden on growing timber.

The determination to have the news reels taken from under the moving picture censorship commission is, in the opinion of an increasing number, correct. As things stand it would be almost as consistent to submit matter to the commission that is to be printed in the newspapers. Almost invariably censorship and reforms in general are over played and thus become unpopular.

Considerable speculation is being indulged in as regards the report of the reorganization commission of which Charles E. Hughes is chairman. While many are predicting what the report will contain and recommend, those who are in position to know are not saying anything. When the right time comes the finding of the committee will be made known and speculation will be unnecessary.

REAL HEALTH.

It is surprising how satisfied some folks feel about their health because they have been able to just "slip" through an insurance examination.

As a matter of fact it is of course reassuring to know that you are sound physically, that heart, lungs and kidneys show no gross trouble. However any number of things can be keeping you from being really physically efficient, and yet you can pass the life insurance test. I mean that you can be ten pounds over or above the normal weight, your lungs may be a number of cubic inches lower in capacity than normal for your age, height and weight. Your heart may be absolutely clear of murmurs of any kind, and yet its muscular power would not stand up under a severe ailment, as would a real organic condition where there was good muscular power.

You may have attacks of indigestion, may feel tired and blue from a sluggish liver, and this will in no way hinder you from getting your life insurance.

What is my point?

That instead of being satisfied with a seventy-five to eighty-five per cent health efficiency, you should go after the full hundred per cent.

You see the insurance examination shows soundness. The insurance examiners are usually very careful, so you have this foundation of "soundness" on which to build.

Further you have the feeling of safety if you decide to properly regulate your daily habits of life.

Dr. Elliot of Harvard tells us that "health is the indispensable foundation for the satisfactions of life. Everything of domestic joy or occupational success has to be built upon bodily wholesomeness and vitality."

It is the satisfactions then that really count. Satisfaction when the day is over of having been able to give the full measure of yourself, your ability to all the things of life, whether of work or play. This will mean care about sleep, food, and exercise. It will mean sacrifice and self denial; it will mean disturbance of your love of ease perhaps, but you'll get the "satisfaction" up to your possible hundred per cent.

New York, Jan. 19.—Wrestling fans today were forced to take Ivan Poddubny, Russian heavyweight, seriously for the first time since he appeared in this country. Poddubny having established himself as a champion contender last night by throwing Wladek Zbyszko in 40 minutes and 2 seconds.

Poddubny secured the fall with his pick-up and drop hold, slamming Zbyszko to the mat with such force that the Pole was unconscious for five minutes.

Poddubny proved too strong for his rival and soon threw him out of the ring.

LONG ISLAND TORY HUNT.

On January 19, 1776, the Jersey boys started out for a Tory hunt on Long Island. That Tory stronghold had been giving the revolutionary leaders much concern. With Governor Tryon on his warship off Sandy Hook, looking for opportunities to stir up opposition to the patriots, and with news coming from Washington that the British were sending out soldiers and ships which might be intended for an attack on New York city, the Continental Congress took the situation in hand and ordered troops to round up the "disaffected" and the "inimical" in Queens and Suffolk counties.

New Jersey militia, known as the Jersey Boys were assigned to this duty. One hundred and fifty years ago today, 900 of them crossed the East River near Hell Gate and marched upon Jamaica. There they arrested some of the Tory leaders and sent out small detachments in all directions with instructions to bring in certain citizens who had shown their hostility to the patriot cause by voting against sending delegates to the Provincial Congress. These people were disarmed and compelled to pledge themselves not to oppose either the Continental or the Provincial Congress, but to be subject to them, and "not to aid or assist the ministerial troops in the present contest."

From Jamaica the Jersey Boys moved on to Hempstead where, as they reported, "the inhabitants came and brought in their arms voluntarily, for two or three days, as fast as we could receive them. We have about 300 stand of arms and a considerable quantity of powder and lead. We are now on our way to Oyster Bay and shall scout the country as we go. . . . The delinquents expressed themselves as well pleased that a detachment of Jerseymen, and not of New England were sent to disarm them."

Successful as this Tory hunt may have been for the time being, it fell far short of ending the war on Long Island. Six months later there was to be in Brooklyn the Battle of Long Island, a disastrous defeat for the Continental army. And throughout the entire war the Long Island Tories were to remain active, and, at times, to make life as miserable for the patriots as the Jersey Boys made it for them during this January invasion. Their great day was to come in June, 1776, when the advance guard of the British army arrived in New York for the campaign which put the city in British hands for the remainder of the war.

May Now Take Over State Land

Over 7,000 Acres Available for Cities, Villages, Towns and Counties for Reforestation.

Albany, Jan. 19—The Conservation Commission is cooperating with boards of supervisors and farm bureau agents in counties having unappropriated state land to make profitable use of such lands by reforesting them.

There are more than 7,000 acres of such land scattered through 26 counties outside of the Forest Preserve and under Section 33A of the Public Lands law such lands may be transferred to a city, incorporated village, town or county for park, playground, reforestation, street or highway purposes.

The law provides that the commissioners of the land office may "from time to time, transfer and convey to a city, incorporated village, town or county, in consideration of one dollar to be paid to the state of New York, a part or all of any parcel or parcels of unappropriated state lands upon certification that such parcel or parcels are useful for local park, recreation, playground, reforestation, street or highway purposes, and that they will be properly improved and maintained for one or more of such purposes, and provided that this disposition of such parcel or parcels is not otherwise prohibited. Certification shall be evidenced by a formal request from the board of estimate, common council, village board, town board or county board of supervisors, setting forth in detail the parcel or parcels to be released, transferred and conveyed and the availability and usefulness of such parcel or parcels for one or more of such purposes. No such release, transfer and conveyance shall be authorized by the commissioners until an investigation has been made and a hearing held. Notice of such hearing shall be given by the commissioners at least four weeks in advance of the hearing and shall be pubished in the same manner as a notice of sale of unappropriated state lands. In the event that lands transferred under the provisions of this section are not properly improved and maintained for one or more of the purposes contemplated by this section by the city, village, town or county to which they were transferred, the title thereto shall revert to the people of the state of New York, and the attorney-general may institute an action in the Supreme court for a judgment declaring a revesting of such title in the state."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

DEXTER AND WORDS

It was really most amazing the way Dexter could use words when it came around the time for the circus to be arriving in town.

What the Billboards Said.

He just naturally used words and words and words about the circus.

Yet all the words meant something, and they seemed to mean more than usual when Dexter used them.

For example every year Dexter said the circus was going to be bigger and better than ever.

It was what the billboards said, too. But when Dexter said so it became so real that the very words "bigger and better" grew in size, it appeared.

Really if you could have looked straight into people's minds where their thoughts all dwell you would seen the words "bigger and better" growing and growing and looking much larger than any of the other thoughts, and much larger, too, than any of the other words which expressed their thoughts.

Ever since he could remember Dexter had loved the circus. He had always found no trouble whatever in getting up the morning of the day the circus came to town.

He loved to lead a pony in the parade. Was there anything in the world to equal a circus parade?

Dexter didn't think there was.

He loved to carry water to the elephants. He loved to hang around a circus and do any odd chores he was asked to do.

He loved to be let in free.

And after all that was quite natural.

Was there anyone who didn't enjoy a ticket to the circus?

If there was such a person, Dexter didn't know him.

He loved everything about the circus, the very smell of the tent under the hot sun, the smell of the peanuts, the smell of the great elephants, the playing of the band, the glorious costumes the beautiful ladies wore, the handsome suits the animals wore—they always wore the same suits!

He loved the clowns and their funny costumes and their jokes and their laughter and their way of looking up at the crowds who sat all around inside the circus tents, rows above rows of people.

Each year he thought he could not wait until the circus came to town.

Each year he thought he could not wait, when the circus had left town, for it to come again.

A whole year was such a long time to wait.

And then, as circus time drew near once more, and the billboards began to appear, Dexter talked of nothing but the circus.

Oh, how he did talk about the circus. He told you what was on the billboards and though you could see the billboards for yourself it was even more wonderful when Dexter told about them.

That was because Dexter was so marvelous with his circus words.

That was what he was—marvelous with circus words.

He told everyone he met what the billboards said, he described the pictures that showed the ladies jumping through hoops, the great, wild animals of the jungle looking at you, and looking wild in their pictures.

He described the different rings the circus would have, he told of the people who rode horses and how they jumped and did such remarkable acts.

So Daring.

He said they were the greatest riders in the whole world. He said the trapeze performers were so daring that you would hold your breath when you saw them.

He said the elephants were so intelligent you'd feel quite small beside them—in more ways than one.

He said the trained seals would make you laugh and chuckle and that the clowns would make you shout with merriment.

He said all these things that could be read upon the billboards but when Dexter described them they were made grander than ever—just like the circus itself!

Would Be Excused

When Jimmy left the table before the others had finished eating he was careful to say, "'Scuse me, please," to which his mother or daddy would always reply, "Very well."

One day they were busy talking and didn't notice Jimmy's repeated "'Scuse me."

Finally, in a disgusted tone, he said, "Can't nobody here say 'very well?'"

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

A simple dish which is both nourishing and easy to prepare is:

Baked Salmon With Peas.—Take one can of salmon and one can of green peas. Prepare a white sauce of two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, cook until smooth and add two cupfuls of milk. Stir the sauce into the salmon, add the peas and put into a buttered baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs. Be sure the salmon is well-seasoned and add a little lemon juice to give zest. Bake or steam until well heated through. If desired the white sauce may be added to the salmon and part of it to the peas, the salmon molded in a loaf and the peas served poured around it. Unmold on a platter and garnish with parsley.

Apple Sponge.—Pare, core and cook six tart apples to a pulp. Rub through a sieve. Mix two tablespoonfuls of flour and three of cold water, add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and a cupful of boiling water. Add the apple pulp, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and sweeten to taste. Beat well, remove from the heat, add three egg yolks, well beaten. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and bake in a shallow dish until puffed and brown.

Asparagus Omelet.—Beat until light the whites and yolks of three eggs separately. Into the yolks stir three tablespoonfuls of water, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of white pepper. Fold in the whites of the eggs. Melt a tablespoonful of fat in an omelet pan and turn in the mixture. Cook on the top of the stove until well cooked on the bottom then finish cooking in the oven. Have ready a sauce prepared from the liquor of the asparagus, using half liquor and half milk, add butter and flour to make a rather thick sauce, season well, add the asparagus tips and pour over and around the omelet when ready to serve.

Blease Blocks Vote on Court

Washington, Jan. 19.—Peace negotiations between the administration-Democratic world court bloc and the senate irreconcilables over fixing a date for a final vote on American adherence failed today because of opposition by Senator Cole Blease, Democrat of South Carolina.

After blocking a peace move for voting on February 10, Blease offered a resolution in the senate proposing December 8, 1927 as the date for the final vote on the court. His resolution came as a surprise, both to court adherents and the irreconcilables.

The move to fix February 10 for a court vote originated with Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, and met with favor among Democratic court leaders. Blease, however, declined to agree.

Blease declared "the people of the United States have not had the opportunity to fully inform themselves as to the true meaning of the so-called world court and there is no immediate necessity for the United States to pass any resolution in reference thereto.

Blease also added that "it is but fair and just to give the people the right to express themselves fully and thoroughly upon this subject."

With the peace negotiations defeated, court leaders resumed their campaign to invoke cloture. This proposal, however, did not meet with unanimous endorsement among the pro-courters and there were some indications it might not be supported by the two thirds majority necessary for enactment.

Administration leaders decided to side track the new tax reduction bill until either a vote is reached or a date is fixed for a final vote on the court.

It is understood the district attorney at Chicago will initiate injunction proceedings against the Zenith concern.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 19.—Professional bears in the stock market gained ground on the bulls today after a decided handicap at the start, when prices were marked up from one to four points, principally as the result of an influx of buying orders from outside points. After these had been filled there was less incentive to buy, and the market drifted back into its narrow rut, with prices gradually settling to the lower levels.

In a well advertised attack on Ward Baking Company B the bears drove the price down from 80 to 76¼, and then turned their attention to industrial alcohol, which declined to around 66, against yesterday's at 74.

A decline in call money rates to 4 per cent in the fourth hour, though hailed as an important indication of an improving money market situation, was without effect on stock prices.

Selling broke out over the whole market in the fourth hour and many stocks retraced their steps to the lowest price levels of the week. U. S. Steel dropped back from 135¼ to 133¾, and Hudson Motor lost about 3 points.

Ouch!

"When Bill's dog was killed by an automobile, it was a sad-going tragedy," remarked the witty youth. "What do you mean?" asked the fair listener to his wit. "A bark gone forever," was the reply.

Fish & Game Ass'n Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association was held at the court house Monday evening.

Officers elected for the year 1926 were: Leroy Longendyke, president; A. A. Davis, vice-president; A. B. Shufeldt, secretary and treasurer; C. S. Preston and C. E. Wonderly, assistant secretaries.

It was decided to experiment with shrimp as a food for trout to increase their growth and 20,000 shrimp will be purchased and planted in different streams where results can be watched.

The association also decided to expend the sum of $200 for the purchase of rabbits to restock portions of the county where the supply seems to be almost exhausted.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a banquet to take place about March 15th.

This association has placed between three and four million trout spawn in the streams of Ulster county during 1925 in addition to which they have received and distributed about 60,000 fingerling trout, several hundred pheasants and large quantities of pheasant eggs for hatching.

Every fisherman and hunter in the county should be an enthusiastic supporter of the association as the more support they have especially in the way of members and money, the better the results that can be obtained. The membership fee is nominal, $2 a year, which includes a year's subscription to the National Sportsman and every sportsman is urged to join.

Checks may be mailed to A. B. Shufeldt, secretary, or handed to any member.

Mr. Strickland was one of Milton's most highly esteemed and respected citizens and a life long resident who will be greatly missed. He was a member of the Men's Club and the Milton fire department. His death was caused by an infection of the leg. At the age of fourteen he fell from a tree causing an injury to his leg which troubled him most of his life. William J. Clancy, son of William and Elizabeth Clancy of Phoenicia, died suddenly Sunday evening, January 10, at Maybrook, N. Y., in the twenty-eighth year of his age. Mr. Clancy for many years a conductor on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, had completed his run as usual from New Haven to Maybrook and had spent the evening in the reading room of the Maybrook Y. M. C. A. listening to the radio. At 10:45 p. m. he bade supper Simpson good night and left for his room a short distance away. At that time he seemed to be enjoying his usual good health. A half hour later some of his crew were summoned by a messenger announcing that Mr. Clancy had just died at his lodging house. He had complained of feeling ill when he arrived there and had asked for a glass of water. A doctor was summoned but before he could arrive Mr. Clancy had died. An inquest was held and the coroner of Maybrook found that death had been caused by a clot of blood on the brain. The body was then taken to his home, 455 Howard avenue, New Haven, Conn., where the funeral took place Thursday, January 14, at 8:30 a. m. at the house and 9 o'clock from the Sacred Heart Church with a solemn High Mass of requiem. Father Kennedy was the celebrant with Father Kavanaugh of Middletown, Conn., a cousin of Mrs. Clancy, as deacon and Father Maurice, subdeacon. The full choir sang most feelingly "Thy Will Be Done" at the end of the Mass. The representatives of the various divisions of the railroad, members of the American Legion and of the Railroad Lodge, 423, Order of Trainmen and Conductors, were present. The throngs of sorrowing fellow men and acquaintances, the profusion of beautiful floral pieces and the many Mass cards were a silent token of the love and esteem in which he was held by all. Interment was in St. Bernard's Cemetery, New Haven. Father Kavanaugh read the committal service after which the American Legion conducted a military service in honor of their comrade, the last salute was fired and from a distance the buglers played "The Last Taps." Conductor Clancy was a veteran of the World War having seen active service as a machine gunner, and was gassed in France September, 1918, but later recovered and saw further service with the Rainbow Division. Besides his parents he is survived by his wife and two small daughters, also two sisters, Mrs. Thomas McGrath of Phoenicia and Miss Anna Clancy of New York city.

The Maids' and Matrons' Club are planning to give a minstrel show on Wednesday evening, February 10. It had been planned to present a comedy, "The Laughing Cure," but on account of difficulty in filling the cast satisfactorily, it was thought advisable to change the type of entertainment. Kenneth Tabor, secretary of the Milton Grange, has received a letter from H. L. McIntyre, supervisor of Gypsy Moth Control in the commission, explaining the reason for the recent marking of fruit and shade trees on the farms of members of Milton Grange. Among the things in connection with the gypsy moth the letter says during the past two or three years a cooperative attempt by the United States Department of Agriculture, the New England states and New York state was made to establish a barrier zone line to prevent a further spread of this insect and the markings on the trees are used solely for checking purposes.

Clarence W. Dayton has invented and perfected the Dayton Fordson attachment for bean clusters to be used on tractors converting tractors into clusters for orchard or vineyards. Hens Little Sense

Newly hatched caterpillars have so little sense that they will starve to death on the merest skeleton of a mulberry leaf instead of leaving it for a fresh leaf close alongside. And for centuries small birds have "mothered" the myth under the impression that it is the hawk.

Schubert Choral Club Concert

The members of the Schubert Choral Club had a most gratifying meeting and rehearsal at the Y. W. C. A. on Friday evening in preparation for their concert to be held Monday evening, January 25 at the high school. The club members reported an excellent sale of tickets and stated that much interest was being manifested in the appearance of Miss Sue Harvard, soprano, who is to be the assisting artist. She is a singer of rare ability, having been a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company. She also has the distinction of being the only honorary woman membre of the Kiwanis Clubs and the local Kiwanians are planning to attend in large numbers.

Musical Trees

In Barbados there is a whistling tree. It has a peculiar shaped leaf, and all its pods have a split edge. The wind passing through the pods causes them to emit the sounds that have given the tree its name. There is a long valley packed with these trees, and when the trade winds blow across the island a continuous deep-toned whistle comes from the valley, the effect being extremely weird. In the Sudan there is a species of acacia also known as the whistling tree.—Cit.

Fur Trimming on Coat of Many Rich Colors

Red, blue, yellow, green and purple vie with each other, with green predominating, in this heavily embroidered sports coat. It is lined in black. The collar, cuff and band around the bottom are dyed fox.

Long Earrings Still Popular Paris Fashion

From time to time the latest news from Paris dooms the earring, the feeling being that it adds years to one's appearance. But the fashion persists. Many attractive styles are offered by the shops that deal in accessories and ornaments. It is no longer surprising to see earrings that touch or almost touch the shoulder. Some are genuine antiques of oriental ancestry, others are extreme examples of modern art. One extravaganza that is rather picturesque is made of enormous hoops, set with pearls, depending from a short pearl chain. Quite different but equally striking are drops consisting of four very large baroque pearls, two white and two gray, joined with small imitation emeralds. Squares of rock crystal, delicately chased, are hung upon wee chains from small cut crystal studs at the ear and tassels of seed pearls are attached by slender links to jeweled rings.

Coats and Dresses Are Made for Small Women

The woman whose height is a little over 5 feet and who takes a 38 or 40-inch size is getting special attention now from the makers of women's garments. She used to find it hard to be suited in ready-to-wears, and made much use of the alteration department. But now she finds garments, dresses and coats that exactly fit her with as much smartness as if she were a "perfect thirty-six."

Some of the distinctive features in the coats are the deep armseye with a variation of the kimono shoulder and the sleeve cut out of the same piece as the back and the front of the body; larger horizontal measurements through the body, larger and shorter sleeves, higher waistline and modified flare. The collar is also designed to suit the short neck usual with this figure type. In fact the whole ensemble tends to slenderize the figure without making it diminutive.

Soft, Supple Material for Afternoon Gowns

Afternoon frocks for the season will be made of the softest and most supple materials. Among those especially favored are chiffon velvet, georgette crepe, crepe de chine, and the very popular crepe-satin. The colors for the season include bois de rose, red-pink, blue-lavenders, green, a range of violets, brown, mauve, green, black, beige and gray.

Cloth combined with georgette and velvet is used in many modes. The tunic has many followers and the forecast says it will remain in style.

The sleeves are for the most part straight and tight fitting, some models having a slight bouffant effect from elbow to wrist.

Chain of Oblong Links Forms Dainty Bracelet

The daintiest novelty among the new bracelets is a chain of very fine oblong links in different sizes in gold, or gold and platinum alternating. The clasp is a plain plate of gold on which the initial or monogram is engraved. Some are heavier and the medallion is set with jewels. An entertaining trinket from Paris is the "French puzzle ring." It is composed of three separate slender links, in green, white and yellow gold, ingeniously arranged to form one ring or to be deciphered into three.

That Evening Slippers Need Not Match and Are Intricately Strapped and That Lizard is the Vogue for Day.

Most of us are thoroughly imbued with the idea that costumes must be of the ensemble genre, and we make valiant efforts to bring about such an effect. Surprisingly enough the Parisienne having succeeded in getting the world to follow her lead in this respect is rather careless about practicing all that she preached. For instance, certainly half of the women who are luxuriously coated in mink do not affect brown hats, but wear gay ones such as rich burgundy shades, greens, or fuchsia—and more than half of the exquisitely gowned women who dance the night away at the smartest clubs and restaurants in Paris affect brocaded silver and gold or metalized kid slippers, rather than those which are made of the material of the gown, or obviously created for it alone.

On the subject of shoes, vitally important just now, satin seems to be out of favor, women preferring brocaded or metallized kids for evenings, and novelty leather for day wear. Almost every woman with any pretense to style has a lizard, crocodile or alligator shoe, lizard preferably, and this irrespective of the color of her dress or coat, though again it must be reiterated that brown tones are prominent here and that brown shoes are the natural accompaniment of green costumes, just as brown furs almost invariably trim them.

Strapped effects in footwear are not passe. The plain pump, high in the back, with an ankle strap is very much worn, there being often a strap from the vamp to the ankle strap. For evening there are many complicated strapped effects, one having a strap either side of the front, curving slightly from vamp to ankle while another has a one-sided strap. These outlined in brilliants or a popular fancy on gold or silver kid slippers.

Weak "Skinny" Folks, Children and Grown-ups.

The greatest blood builder in the world is iron. Any doctor will tell you, "Take Iron for the blood and Cod Liver Oil to build good, solid flesh." But remember, you've got to take BOTH for sure results.

Skinny folks who fail to gain on either cod liver oil or iron alone, just pile on flesh when they take them BOTH together.

Best of all! No more nasty, fishy taste to Cod Liver Oil, for now Marwinske and Loebrich, downtown, Hinds and Weinberg, Wese Side and all good druggists are selling Burke's Cod Liver Oil & Iron Tablets, sugar coated, tasty as candy, with all the vitamines retained, so that you get just the same results as with the old stomach-upsetting oil and bitter tasting iron.

Any thin, weak person can gain strength this new way. And for children, they're wonder-workers. Kids like this candy-coated tablet, and it sure builds them up quick.

One little girl gained 8 pounds in six weeks, and a Detroit woman, so weak she gave up her job, went back to work feeling fine in less than a month.

Inexpensive too,—a full week's treatment for 50 cents, or 18 days for $1.00, and if they don't increase your weight in 30 days, money back from your druggist.

But don't forget to specify "Burke's," containing BOTH cod liver oil and iron.

Testing Gold

The ordinary and simplest method of testing gold consists in touching the metal with a glass stopper wetted with nitric acid. This will leave gold untouched, while base alloys will take a blue color from the formation of nitrate of copper. It's a better idea, though, to take the piece to a jeweler and have him tell you whether it is pure.

You May Pay on the Budget Plan

Many people in receipt of an income payable weekly or monthly find it inconvenient to lay out a lump sum at one time. This may entail loss through missing opportunities for good buying.

A Budget Credit Account

prevents this loss. It furnishes the lump sum in the form of credit, without imposing penalties.

First you ascertain the cost of the furniture or household goods you wish to buy.

Then you open a budget account for the total amount. That is, in effect, an extended charge account on which the bill is rendered in monthly portions instead of all at once. The length of time and size of payments depend upon the amount of your purchase and upon your convenience.

Only the usual references for opening any charge account are required. When arrangements have been made, the entire group of furnishings is yours upon receipt fo the initial payment. Discussion of personal affairs is optional. Those who need help in planning how to furnish out of income will find the Budget Service ready to help you.

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE GREAT ROARING POWK.

A few of these creatures can be seen feeding on scrap iron outside locomotive works, which gives them an iron constitution. After they have fed, several powks will perch in the girders above boiler works and caterwaul until the boilermakers are nearly deafened, and most of the rivets they have put in are loosened. The powkish sound of a boiler thrown by an enraged workman landing on the powk's head gives the creature its name.

The powk shown here about to dodge an oncoming boiler has a paper shell pecan body, with a large filbert head attached on the front end. The eyes, one of which can be seen, are split navy beans with ink spots. Popcorn and split bean wings, along with toothpick legs and split peanut feet, make up the balance of the beast.

How Wily Cameraman Got Screen Pictures

"In darkest Africa, in a village called Kimbabeal, a cameraman found a tribe of savages who had never before seen but one white man. He had been a French officer, as they reminiscently remarked through an interpreter. However, the cameraman who found this tribe received permission from the chief to film his people. Naturally he didn't care to cross the cannibals. Yet neither did he wish to spoil the chances of having his pictures reach the screen.

"The tribe wore the proverbial smile all right, but the sash in every instance had been left at home. There seemed to be no chance in the world of getting over his idea of modesty on the American plan.

"While he was trying to figure out the solution he spied a pile of ostrich feathers gayly colored with native dye. He selected a sturdy young buck as his model. The cannibals crowded about him and in no time at all he had a steady stream of animated feather dusters issuing from his swiftly moving hands. The pictures which he brought back with him were eminently respectable."—Pell Mitchell in Everybody's Magazine.

New Paltz Plays Here Tonight

Kingston fans who saw the crack New Paltz Normal five wrestle a match which was filled with last minute thrills and excitement from Coach O'Leary's Maroon and White squadron at New Paltz, several weeks ago, will not miss these two aggregation tussling this evening in the K. H. S. gym.

The two Ulster county teams have only met once before this season, the New Paltzers taking that affair by a 32 to 26 tally.

Coach Mike Palen has three brilliant men in Captain Masterson, Oakley and Storms and if the local mentor can keep the local ball tossers constantly in pursuit of these players, the situation may be reversed. The Maroon and White players have a slight advantage in playing on home territory, a court which puts some teams at great disadvantage. Nevertheless the schoolmasters have played on the local play ground several times before in past seasons.

A preliminary game which will probably start at 7 o'clock, will be played between the K. H. S. Seconds and the strong De Molay team.

Appoint Haskell Head of Guard

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Appointments by Governor Smith of Colonel William N. Haskell, as commander of the state's national guard, and Former Mayor John H. Walrath of Syracuse, as a member motion picture censorship commission, will be confirmed by the senate, it was declared today at the capitol.

Colonel Haskell, a native of Albany, was appointed to succeed Major General Charles W. Berry, who resigned to take up his duties as comptroller of New York city. The post pays $9,000 a year.

Former Mayor Walrath will succeed George H. Cobb, of Watertown, on the movie commission. Cobb was the last Republican member of the board. The job pays $7,500 a year.

ADDITIONAL PAVING COST APPROVED BY COMMISSION

Albany, Jan. 19.—The Public Service Commission has amended its order of June 15, 1920, for elimination of Cornell street grade crossing of the West Shore railroad to Kingston to the city across Manor avenue to Foxhall avenue. The original order provided for construction only as far as Manor avenue. The additional work cost $1,149.19, of which the state will pay one-quarter.

Veterans Map Out Legislative Plans

Forty Odd Ex-service Members of The Legislature Discuss Plans To Push Through Measures, Including Appropriations For Bonus.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Ex-service members of the Legislature, forty odd in number, who will form a bloc, have mapped out a legislative program which includes the appropriation of an additional $500,000 for soldier bonus payments and the extension of the time within which application for benefit may be filed to January 1, 1927.

It is pointed out today by members of the bloc that there are one hundred thousand veterans of the world war and dependents of deceased veterans who are entitled to participation in the bonus fund, who have not applied for their share.

Bills ceding to the federal government the cemetery of the soldiers and sailors home at Bath, and memorializing congress to make it a second Arlington, providing for reduced rates of fare for relatives visiting veterans confined to hospitals and requiring that there shall be no charge for making out papers in connection with applications for soldiers bonus payments, are included in the group of measures upon which the ex-service legislators are solidly united.

The ex-service men were to meet at the Capitol today to discuss plans for pushing their measures through both houses of the Legislature.

SOCIETY NOTES

Benincase-Martino.

Frank Benincase of No. 15 Ulster street and Mrs. Susie Martino of No. 1 Walnut street were married on January 17 by the Rev. Joseph B. Scully of St. Mary's Church. They were attended by James Amato and Catherine Amato.

An Anniversary Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Raichle of 46 Spruce street were agreeably surprised Saturday evening, when friends and relatives numbering about thirty gathered at their home to help celebrate their fifth anniversary. During the evening delicious refreshments were served and upon the departure of the guests all were loud in their praise for such an enjoyable evening. Hope was expressed that all would be able to celebrate many more anniversaries together. Mr. and Mrs. Raichle received many lovely gifts.

Donlon-Desmond.

The wedding of Miss Emma Irene Desmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Desmond of Clermont street, Saugerties, became the bride of Michael E. Donlon, Jr., of Washington avenue of that place, in St. Mary's Church, Saugerties, on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Miss Irene Spatz of Partition street acted as bridesmaid and Paul A. Donlon, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony a luncheon was served at the home of the bride to the immediate relatives after which they left for a honeymoon in New York and vicinity. The bride who is a very popular young lady was employed in the office of Attorney Benjamin Rowe. The groom is associated with his father in the coal and lumber business at Saugerties. The well wishes of their many friends will be extended them for a happy wedded life and upon their return will reside in the new home which Mr. Donlon recently had built on Underdue street, Saugerties.

Sorosis.

On Monday afternoon Sorosis members and friends enjoyed a delightful social afternoon at the home of Mrs. William A. Schornstheimer. An interesting and entertaining program had been arranged by Mrs. Myra E. Drake and Mrs. E. Terpening. Following the singing of the Sorosis song written by the hostess, those present were given an "Auto-bile Story," with many blank spaces to be filled, the prize going to the one correctly filling the most blanks. The merriment caused by the game was increased when each member received a slip of paper containing a small part of a story, the person thinking their part made the best introduction to the story and the same and was followed in turn by those who thought their parts appropriately fitted in. After the most remarkable production had been read, the real story was read amidst much laughter. Refreshments were then served, and during the serving music was given by Miss Genevieve Main at the piano and Frederick Broadie, violinist. Next week Sorosis will meet with Mrs. George Silver.

Herman-Millens.

A wedding of much interest to Kingstonians occurred in New York city on Sunday, January 10, when Rae Millens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Millens of Meadow street, this city, was united in marriage to Arthur Herman, son of Mrs. A. Herman formerly of New York city. The ceremony took place at the Royal Palms, the Rev. Mr. Horn officiating. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin trimmed with silver tissue and having a court train. Her veil of Princess lace was caught with orange blossoms and she carried white orchids and lilies. Miss Lillian Herman, sister of the groom, acted as maid of honor and wore a gown of silver lace and carried butterfly roses. The bridesmaids were the Misses Ida Levine, Evelyn Goldman, Eva Ben Miller, Ida Miller and Ida Kaplan and their pretty gowns were of chiffon shaded from one color to tone. They carried old fashioned nosegays of spring flowers. The little flower girls were Ruth Hess and Dorothy Miller. Herman Millens had as his best man, Milton Millens, brother of the bride. The ushers were William Thorpe, Harold Miller, Marvin Miller, David Millens, Theodore Miller and Dr. Milton Schwartz. Following an elaborate banquet, dancing was enjoyed.

Monday Club.

The Monday Club met this week at the home of Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck. During the business session it was voted to pay the Club's annual dues to the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The Monday Club is the only local club affiliated with the National Federation of Women's Clubs. Announcement was made of the meeting called by the good government committee of The Federation of Women's Clubs of all interested women voters at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Broadway, on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. At this meeting important problems will be considered. Mrs. Ralph Wheeler had the paper for the day on "French Influence in Russia." After devoting considerable time in the preparation of a paper, Mrs. Wheeler received from Dr. Textor of Vassar a rare book by the Marquis de Custine on "Russia," that proved to be so interesting that Mrs. Wheeler gave only a small part of her own paper and read from the book. In her paper, Mrs. Wheeler showed the Russian tendency to copy Parisian culture and art to the expense of native gifts, elaborating on this phase of the subject very interestingly. Custine in his book gave vivid descriptions of Russia, geographically, artistically, educationally, and of the people and their habits and customs; especially the peasant people of his time—that of Louis Phillip. The writer seemed especially impressed with the slovenly and poor appearance of the women as compared to the men who were more careful in their dress and physical appearance. The book proved so fascinating that regret was expressed that it could not be secured for other club women in the city. As an illustration of two characteristic Russian musical numbers, The Song of the Volga Boatmen and The Hymn to the Sun by by Rimsky-Karsakow were played on the victrola. Next Monday the club will meet with Mrs. Lawton, when Mrs. Searle will have her paper on "Paderewski and Modjeska."

Poughkeepsie Is Undefeated

Everything is rosy and fine in the DUSO League for Poughkeepsie this season. The Blue and White basketball squad is now perched on top of the league heap with three important scalps at its belt, having defeated Kingston, Newburgh and Middletown. The Bridge City team's latest accomplishment was to trounce Newburgh by a big score.

Port Jervis took a close match from the Middies also last week, the score being 10 to 9. This makes the Port aggregation tied for the second place honors and Kingston trailing behind in the third position.

Middletown seems to be heading for the same spot the locals landed in on the gridiron, the Middies having lost all four matches played this season.

Benjamin Is Still Champion

Benjamin-Atlas Match is Decided in Three Falls—Sanderson and Flen Also Win.

F. Ivan Benjamin won two out of three falls from Young Atlas of New Britain Monday evening at the Elks' Club.

Benjamin retained his wrestling title, taking the first and deciding fall from his strong opponent. It took eighteen minutes for Benjamin to pin Atlas's shoulders to the mat in his first victory. Atlas won his fall in twelve minutes. The deciding fall was completed in fifty-five seconds, the champion pinning his opponent to the floor with a body grip.

The match was viewed with great interest, both wrestlers showing that they knew the essentials of the mat game. Both were able to secure good holds and both were strong enough to break the grips.

Sanderson Won.

The opening match between "Sandy" Sanderson defending his Dutchess county title against "Milo" Morgan was won by Sanderson. About four minutes before the half hour time limit was up Sanderson secured a headlock which won for him the decision.

Benny Flen Won.

Benny Flen won over Warren Smith in the second match. It took Flen twenty-five minutes to pin Smith to the mat. This match was also very interesting as both men displayed unusual skill and strength.

Ed. Cashin was the referee and his work deserved the highest praise.

McQuillan Has a Broken Hand.

New York, Jan. 19.—Efforts to communicate with Hugh McQuillan, pitcher of the New York Giants, proved unavailing today, following advices from the Giants southern headquarters at Sarasota, Florida, that McQuillan has sustained a broken hand. The injury is alleged to have occurred during an altercation with a taxicab driver.

Harris Decides To Stand Pat

There Will Be a Few Unimportant Changes in Senators' Lineup—Looks for Good Year From Johnson and Peckinpaugh.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

New York, Jan. 19.—Contrary to gratuitous advice from the boys in the back room, it seems that Stanley Harris, the well known young man, has decided to stand pat on his Washington outfit for 1926, according to advices today from the capitol. He might do worse, at that.

The writer seems to remember that the Senators won the 1925 pennant in the American League with some few games to spare. Perhaps this fact looks significance. Perhaps coldslaw is hot. I am willing to give both the benefit of the same doubt. Anyhow, one usually breaks up a championship combination without visible enthusiasm and celerity.

Still you can't fool the boys in the back room. At least, not more than seven days a week.

Immediately after the Senators finished second in the world series they decided that something ought to be done about the Washington ball club and proceeded to do it. Using the "finger bet" system, which is infallibly economic, they obtained waivers on Roger Peckinpaugh, traded Joe Judge for an usher and arranged to give the elderly pitching staff decent burial.

Harris simply sat tight and let them rave. Those in his confidence claim that he plans few changes and that none of them are important.

Tom Zachary and Spencer Adams may move on elsewhere and Joe Bush possibly will be obtained from the Browns. Everett Scott, Bobby Veach, Allan Russell and Nemo Leibold may retire, which means that they are just about beating the gun.

Johnson, Coveleskie and Ruether will be the big three of the pitching staff, as was the case in 1925. Ferguson, Ogden, Marberry and Ballou also will be around and about. The infield will be the same, Judge, Stanley Harris, Peckinpaugh and Bluege, with Shirley, Adam, Meyer and Joe Harris in reserve. Ruel and Severeid will again do the catching.

Goslin and Rice will be two of the outfielders, with Joe Harris playing a lot of games in right field because of his punch. An effort, however, will be made to develop another regular from among Jeanes, McNeely and Archdeacon, although these young men have been somewhat irregular to date.

Harris, they allege, is convinced that Peckinpaugh is good for another season at short stop and says that Peck's world series performance can be thrown out like yesterday's cabbage. He also looks for another fine year from Walter Johnson, Ogden to develop into a winner, Ruether and Coveleskie to carry right on and the Mississippi river to run east and west.

PLANTING FOR PROFIT.

Non-resident Owners of Land in New York to Reforest It.

Albany, Jan. 19.—Within the past week the Conservation Commission has received seven letters from as many different states in regard to reforesting land owned by the writers in this state.

One from Birmingham, Ala., asked for advice regarding reforesting land in Westchester county; one from Denver, Col., in regard to planting land in Washington county; one from South Carolina regarding land in Delaware county; one from Deland, Fla., regarding land in Chenango county; one from Chicago regarding land in Delaware county; one from New Jersey regarding land in Essex county, and one from Massachusetts in regard to land in Allegany county.

The writers of these letters have heard of the movement in New York state to make profitable use of idle land by planting trees on it and plan to so utilize land owned by them in New York where planting stock can be procured cheaply.

Doesn't just deaden pain—gets at the cause

RHEUMATISM AND NEURITIS GIVEN AMAZING RELIEF

Everyone who has suffered with rheumatism or neuritis knows what real pain is.

And when they get relief from pain they want to give the benefit of their experience to other sufferers.

Here is a letter from a man in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who tried numerous remedies without relief, and then got genuine help from a simple home treatment.

"I had neuritis in my arm and shoulder, and the treatments I took did me no good. A friend told me to try Sloan's Liniment, and in less than ten applications my affliction was gone.

What is the magic of this amazingly effective remedy? Sloan's sends an increased supply of healing, germ-destroying blood right to the spot that hurts. That's what conquers the pain. No need to rub. Sloan's does the whole job. Just put it on. Quickly and surely, it kills pain, reduces swelling and inflammation, drives out stiffness and pain. Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.
